FOR IMMEDIATE PRESS RELEASE

TAKE Solutions Achieves Membership in Microsoft's Global BioIT Alliance

Princeton, NJ — December 12, 2006 — TAKE Solutions announced today its inclusion in Microsoft's global BioIT Alliance program. The BioIT Alliance strategically unites pharmaceutical, clinical research, biotech & software companies to collaborate on business and technology ideas while developing regulatory compliant life sciences solutions.

TAKE Solutions' contribution to the BioIT Alliance includes its eleven year track record as a Microsoft Gold Certified Partner, membership in Microsoft's Digital Pharma Initiative, and in-depth experience developing solutions for regulated life sciences organizations. "TAKE Solutions' life sciences industry knowledge and experience, coupled with close working relationships among the BioIT Alliance member companies, will make this union an efficient and meaningful industry forum", stated Robert MacDougall, TAKE Solutions Executive Vice President, Sales and Marketing.

The Alliance seeks to unite market leaders and thought leaders from across the industry. "Our customers have told us that they spend a significant percentage of their budgets satisfying regulatory requirements" Bruce Burns, Senior Director of the Strategic Relations Group. "We are happy to have TAKE Solutions join the BioIT Alliance with their deep expertise in delivering eBusiness solutions into a regulated market."

On April 4, 2006, at the BioIT World Life Sciences Conference and Expo, Microsoft announced the formation of the BioIT Alliance. The Alliance is a group of organizations working together to realize the potential of personalized medicine. The Alliance unites the pharmaceutical, clinical research, biotech, and information technology industries to explore innovative ways to share complex biomedical data and collaborate among multi-disciplinary teams to speed the pace of discovery in the life sciences.
